Bubbl   CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Location: DC / NYC
Hours: Part-Time
Company:

Bubbl is creating a mobile app that lets friends capture the best parts of online videos. With so many video links shared daily, no one has time to watch everything or to wade through the litter blasted on social networks to find what really matters.

This is just the first step in a much bigger vision to empower the transformative use of digital content.

Our company is well established and growing rapidly. We have raised two seed rounds, and are on track to raise our Series A financing in 2014. We are proudly accelerated out of 1776 DC and have been accepted to several top-10 accelerators for this summer.

Our team is made of veteran entrepreneurs. Our CEO, who graduated from Georgetown Law and Stanford GSB, has a successful production company and web marketplace under his belt. Our COO is from the film industry, and co-founded that marketplace and innovated systems for audience-dependent alternate theatrical programming. Our VP of Design is from AOL, and sold his last startup to Microsoft.

Job Titles: Developer / Director of Technology, Developer / VP of Technology (2 openings)
Expertise: iOS Development, Objective-C, Android Development, Experience Developing for Audio/Visual Media, Mobile Apps in App Store, Experience with Automated Testing Tools for Native Apps, Collaborating on Multiple Projects Simultaneously

Can you build things no one has thought to build? Are you believer in technical entrepreneurship?

We are seeking a couple of inspired engineers who want to boldly go into into the technologically unknown. At the core, a technologist should be capable of supporting the CTO in product and vision. However, at Bubbl, we strongly believe in technical entrepreneurship. We encourage our engineers to constantly innovate new processes, ignore boundaries, and create solutions to impossible problems. A great deal of your time will be spent coming up with new proprietary technologies, specifically in regards to new ways to interact with the digital multimedia environment.

Warp drives are cool – leading the world into the malleable media revolution is better.

The right candidate will be offered substantial equity in addition to stock options as part of their compensation package. We're looking for teammates, not just employees.

Deliverables:

You'll be expected to have a firm understanding of current trends and innovations in mobile development, user interfaces, and app design, particularly as it pertains to digital content (audio/visual – especially streaming video content). You will work with the CTO to support current products, but will also work closely with the CEO to develop strategies of how to empower the technologies you've created to build our disruptive business opportunities.

For a taste of things you'll need to crush: Support CTO and product team in executing technical vision, Rapidly develop product components with minimal supervision, Assist CEO and CTO in scanning environment for new technologies, Troubleshooting and solution-finding, Expressing your passion about exploring and creating new technologies.

Send quick pitch, résumé, portfolio, and relevant links to info@bubbl.me
Please put your name and position applying for in subject line.