Bubbl

Location: DC / NYC
Hours: Part-Time
Company:

Bubbl is creating a mobile app that lets friends capture the best parts of online videos. With so many video links shared daily, no one has time to watch everything or to wade through the litter blasted on social networks to find what really matters.

This is just the first step in a much bigger vision to empower the transformative use of digital content.

Our company is well established and growing rapidly. We have raised two seed rounds, and are on track to raise our Series A financing in 2014. We are proudly accelerated out of 1776 DC and have been accepted to several top-10 accelerators for this summer.

Our team is made of veteran entrepreneurs. Our CEO, who graduated from Georgetown Law and Stanford GSB, has a successful production company and web marketplace under his belt. Our COO is from the film industry, and co-founded that marketplace and innovated systems for audience-dependent alternate theatrical programming. Our VP of Design is from AOL, and sold his last startup to Microsoft.

Job Title: Mobile Developer / VP of Development (potential for CTO title)
Expertise: iOS Development, Objective-C, Android Development, Information Architecture, Experience Developing for Audio/Visual Media, Mobile Apps in App Store

Are you a wonderful unicorn technologist that can pioneer the future?

We need a coding and architecture whiz who is not afraid to lock themselves in a coder's closet and throw away the key. Nevertheless, we believe great technology officers don't just speak the language(s); they establish the technological vision, assess requirements, and schedule development that will dictate the company's strategic technology direction. Technology at Bubbl isn't just about coding – it's about creating.

The right candidate will be offered substantial equity in addition to stock options as part of their compensation package. We're looking for teammates, not just employees.

Deliverables:

You'll be expected to build the mobile application on both the client and server (platform-dependent) side, plus front- and back-end user and customer portals for the most incredible product in the mobile world. You will lead architecture and development from the ground up. No one will hold your hand, but you wouldn't want someone to anyway.

For a taste of things you'll need to crush: Establish technical vision, Establish development schedule, Write code to implement vision, Control technology budget, Manage development team, Deliver fully functional App iterations, Oversee ongoing agile development schedule, Recruit technical talent.

Send quick pitch, résumé, portfolio, and relevant links to info@bubbl.me
Please put your name and position applying for in subject line.